

GrowForge – Joke Book

A Spark & Anvil joke book. Groan-worthy puns, tricky riddles, silly nonsense, and real fun facts from the world of GrowForge – read them out loud and make someone laugh.

I'm rooting for you -- and so are your plants!

How to use this book

Read a joke, pause at the question, and try to guess the answer before you read on. Best of all: read them out loud to a friend, a grown-up, or your class. A good laugh makes the tricky stuff easier – that's real science.

Puns

I'm rooting for you -- and so are your plants!

The gardener quit because his celery wasn't high enough.

Why was the plant such a good student?

 It was always growing and branching out.

Photosynthesis teachers are great -- they really know how to make light of everything.

My garden's doing well -- you could say things are looking up. Especially the sunflowers.

I tried to tell a joke about soil, but it was too dirty.

The flower didn't ride its bike to school because it lost its petals.

The tree felt stumped by the test, but it decided to leaf through the textbook one more time.

I asked the mushroom if it wanted to come to the party. It said, "Sure, I'm a fungi!"

Chloroplasts are always positive -- they've never had a dark reaction. Wait, actually they have. That's literally what it's called.

The cactus was the most popular plant in school -- it had so many points.

The bees started a band. Their first album?

 "Greatest Pollen Hits."

The garden hose was terrible at keeping secrets -- it always spilled the water.

I have a budding interest in botany.

The weed went to court, but the case was dismissed -- it planted itself there first.

My composting project was a total success -- it was really starting to come together.

The plant cell went to therapy because it felt too enclosed -- it had too many walls.

The Venus flytrap opened a restaurant. The reviews?

 "Great snap, but the service is a trap."

Xylem and phloem make a great team -- one brings the water up, the other sends the sugar down. Real transport goals.

The scarecrow won an award because he was outstanding in his field.
