How to use this book

Read a joke, pause at the question, and try to guess the answer before you read on. Best of all: read them out loud to a friend, a grown-up, or your class. A good laugh makes the tricky stuff easier – that's real science.

💡 "I'm going to make a smudging impression on you!"

Why was the crayon so confident?

💡 It always stayed within the lines of its comfort zone!

What do you call a painting that tells a story?

💡 A brush with narrative!

Why did the canvas feel so calm?

💡 It was on its best "canvas behavior" in Calm Mode!

What did the red paint say to the blue paint?

💡 "Together, we make a purple-ose!"

Why did the digital brush need a vacation?

💡 It was having a stroke!

What's an artist's favorite kind of ship?

💡 A pencil-ship -- it draws people together!

Why did the stamp tool feel repetitive?

💡 Because it kept making the same impression!

What did the undo button say to the mistake?

💡 "Don't worry, I've got you covered!"

Why are emotions like a color palette?

💡 Because there's a whole spectrum to choose from!

What did the gallery wall say to the artwork?

💡 "I'm hanging on your every detail!"

Why did the opacity slider feel invisible?

💡 Because someone turned it all the way down!

What's a watercolor's least favorite weather?

💡 A dry spell!

Why did the art materials throw a party?

💡 Because they were on a roll -- especially the stamp!

What did the Apple Pencil say to the finger?

💡 "No pressure, but I can sense more than you!"

Why did the social story illustration win an award?

💡 It had a great character arc!

What do you call a layer that sits on top of all the others?

💡 The over-achiever!

Why did the color wheel go round and round?

💡 It was looking for its complementary match!

What did the sensory profile say to the bright colors?

💡 "Could you tone it down? I'm on the calm setting!"
